From: Adam Roberts
To: Microsoft ATR
Date: 11/19/01 7:57am
Subject: Netscape & Windows XP problem

I have come across a problem that in Windows XP that STOPS Netscape from installing.

I reported this as a bug when I received Windows XP Professional RC2 but it wasn't fixed.

Do the following:

i.e.

Have a directory called win98 that contains the setup files for Windows 98.

i.e. - c:\masters\win98

Then have the netscape setup program in parent directory.

i.e. - c:\masters\cc32e47.exe run cc32e47.exe and when it gets to 100% it reports that it can't install Windows 98 and then fails.

If you rename the win98 directory to something else then it works okay.

Adam Roberts
adam@videocontrols.co.uk
+44(0)7762127353